Patron Capital wins at the Environmental Finance Impact Awards 2021

Patron Capital, the pan-European institutional investor focused on property-backed investments, has won Impact Project / Investment of the Year – Real Estate, at this year's Environmental Finance Impact Awards 2021.

The Impact Project / Investment of the Year award honours firms that have gone above and beyond to create positive social purpose through impact investing in the real estate sector. Patron Capital won the award for its work with the Women in Safe Homes fund and was praised by one of the judges for its 'highly innovative, impactful and needed' strategy to provide the world's first gender-lens property fund.

The Environmental Finance Impact Awards is part of Environmental Finance, the online publication that reports on sustainable investment, green finance and the people and companies active in environmental markets. The awards were created to celebrate firms that have excelled in the impact investing market.

Keith Breslauer, Managing Director of Patron Capital, said:

"This win is incredibly special following all the hard work by the team to develop the Women in Safe Homes fund. The fund combines our extensive property investment expertise, granular approach and wide network of real estate and investment contacts to help those who need it the most. Despite the pandemic, we've been able to create something special and thank you to our partners, Resonance, for helping us to do this. I'm proud of everyone involved."
